1. Overview

This article describes the performance review cycle, rating scale, and how reviews connect to compensation decisions.

2. Review Cycle & Timeline

Formal performance reviews run twice a year: a mid-year check-in (June) and an annual review (December), each preceded by a 2-week self-assessment window. Employees who joined less than 90 days before a review date are excluded from that cycle and reviewed at the next one instead.

3. Rating Scale

Rating	Label	Typical Distribution
5	Exceptional	~5% of employees
4	Exceeds Expectations	~20% of employees
3	Meets Expectations	~55% of employees
2	Needs Improvement	~15% of employees
1	Unsatisfactory	~5% of employees

4. Goal Setting

Employees set 3-5 goals at the start of each cycle in the Performance tab of the HR portal, reviewed and agreed with their manager within the first 2 weeks. Goals should follow the SMART framework (Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant, Time-bound).

5. Promotion & Compensation Review Link

Compensation adjustments are considered only at the annual (December) review, using the rating from that cycle. A rating of 4 or 5 in two consecutive annual cycles is a prerequisite for promotion consideration, though it does not guarantee promotion, which also depends on role availability.

6. Frequently Asked Questions

- Does extended leave affect my review timing? Yes -- see the Employee Leave Policy; an employee on leave covering more than half of a review period is moved to the next cycle.
- Can a rating be appealed? Yes, within 10 business days of the rating being shared, via the Performance tab.

- Are mid-year ratings used for compensation? No, only the annual (December) rating feeds compensation decisions.

7. Escalation

Rating disputes not resolved by the direct manager within 10 business days are escalated to the department head and an HR business partner jointly.
